It is a six-pound shot, and one of the identical balls that went through the old Eldridge House in May, 186. Mr. Wood found it on the Archibaid place, and this would go to prove that it was one of the 29 or 29 that were fired through the hotel from where the postoffice now stands out of our old Sacramento gun. The company who did the fring was under the command of David Atchison, of pro-slavery notoriety, but as they only had one gun the building could not be demolished quickly enough, so it was burned after a fruitless attempt to blow it up with six kegs of gunpowder. This is a relie worth keeping.

Man who Don't Seem to be O. B [Linn County Clarion, &]

The man who was arrested last week on the Osage and brought to Mound City, supposed to be Davis, one of the parties who had escaped from the jail, and was set at liberty, and was arrested again and returned to Fort Scott in Bourbon county, called on us on Monday to say that the Fort Scott recople found that he was not the man they wanted and had set him at liberty once more. He gives his name as Albert Colemon, and says he resides in Cass county, Missouri. We know nothing of the man, and only give his statement for what it is worth. If the story of his first captors is true, that he tried to paim himself off as the deputy sheriff of this county, it is well to look out for him.

Caught in the Act of Sawing His [Linn County Clarion, 5.]

Way Out of Jail. (Girard Press, 4.)
On Saturday night, about twelve o'clock, some of our cltizens heard a peculiar noise proceeding from the county jail. Thinking outsiders were attempting to release the only person confined there, they alarmed Sheriff Braden and Deputy Sheriff Wolf, who proceeded, with a few vointicers, to investigate and capture the liberators. The jail yard was surrounded, and a rush was made upon the jail. It was then discovered that no one was assisting the prisoner. The jail door was unlocked, and upon passing in, James Haley was found in the ceil apparently all right; but an examination of the door revealed that the iron bars by which it is fastened to the body of the cage, had been sawed nearly off, and the remainder broken so that itswung freely. A little further search revealed a case knife, which had been made into a very fine saw, Haley having forced his way out of the iron cage, by courtesy called a ceil, was industriously engaged in enlarging the hole in the wooden wall of the jail proper, us d to pass food through to the prisoners. In an houror two he would have been at liberty had he not been overheard.
